Celebrating our fifth anniversary

A library for Lowedges!

Lucy Booth is a face you're going to be seeing more of in the coming months. Her mission — to establish a library facility in Lowedges. Working in partnership with the LBJ Forum, the library will be housed in the Lowedges Community Centre, with a stock of around 900 books. In these times of declining book borrowing and library closures, opening a new one is a bold step — one that reflects our growing confidence as an organisation since taking over Greenhill Library five years ago. "We have been aware for some time that it is not so convenient for Lowedges' residents to access the Library", says Patrick Coghlan, the trustee who is overseeing the project. "And we're excited by the opportunities that having a presence there will bring".

If you live in Lowedges and would like to get involved with this exciting project, get in touch with Lucy at lucy@greenhill-library.org. We're looking for a regular commitment of just 3 hours a week. And through our partnership with Time Builders, volunteers will be able to earn "time credits" which can be exchanged for a variety of leisure and educational opportunities or even for a meal in the Time Builders' Cafe. With an opening scheduled for January, Lucy is going to have some busy weeks ahead!

Featured Volunteers

The success of our library rests entirely on our amazing team of volunteers. We asked a couple of them what they do, and why they got involved.

More-or-less retired Clive Opie has had a lifetime in education – first as a teacher, then as a teacher trainer, and ending up as Dean of Education at Bradford College. He joined us as a volunteer 4 years ago. “It seemed a natural thing to do” he said, “a way to continue to use my skills”. Clive started helping with Chatterbooks and took it over in 2016. He ran it each Monday afternoon for two years before handing over to Janet and Christina. Clive has also been the lead on our Summer Reading Challenge for the last three years. But perhaps his most significant achievement has been to win the trust of the local schools and organise class visits to the library. “I just want to get the kids interested in reading and using the resources of the library” he says. “In fact even the class teachers who come don’t always realise just what we offer here”

You can often find Clive on the front desk. You may also have seen him compering our “Feast of Folk” evening, and you might – just might – have caught him playing the fiddle.

California-born Shelley Walsh came to the library in May 2018, encouraged by friends who were volunteers. “I was new in the area and saw it as a way to meet new people”, she said. “And I believe in community libraries and their potential to supplement the education system.” Never backward in coming forward, Shelley soon found herself setting up and running our code club sessions. Shortly after that she was persuaded to join the board as a trustee. Her most recent venture is a play reading group. “It’s a small group”, she told us, “but those who come have a good time”. She’s currently working with LBJ Forum and others in an effort to get a crossing on Greenhill Parkway.

Join us at 6.30pm on Friday 20th December for our free end-of-term film show, The Muppets Christmas Carol. Arguably the best of the many tellings of this classic Dickens story, and certainly the only one with Miss Piggy in it, this is a great family film for all to share. No booking.

Friday Evening Talks

15 November at 7.30: "How the Tudors Celebrated Christmas" with Maureen Taylor

We enjoy our Christmases, and so did the Tudors. They involved heaps of fun and ribaldry, but also had a huge element of friendship and commitment to family (no matter how distant), and to charity for those less well off. They sang and drank, made merry, danced, and used their imaginations. There are similarities with our Christmases, but also great differences; find out what they were like.'

17 January at 7.30pm: "A history of Sheffield Football" with Martin Westby

During the 19th century Sheffield led the world of Association Football and was a critical factor in the formulation of today's worldwide rules and regulations. Come and hear Sheffield-born football historian Martin Westby talk about the rich history of the 95 Sheffield clubs that existed between 1857 and 1889, with special emphasis on today's four surviving clubs. Martin will also be selling and signing copies of his book "A History of Sheffield Football 1857-1889... Speed Science and Bottom".

Since opening our doors under volunteer control we've been open for 6,250 hours and issued 153,000 books. Thanks to all who have supported us.

Book Review: "The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society"

by Mary Ann Shaffer and Annie Barrows.

What books do our volunteers enjoy? Ann Firth talks about a recent read.

"I have had an interest in the German occupation of the Channel Islands since a visit to Jersey in the early 1970's. This book shines a light on that difficult but interesting period of recent history in a sensitive but humorous way.

The main character, Juliet, is a writer struggling in post-war Britain to overcome writer's block. Out of the blue, she receives a letter from a Guernsey resident who has seen Juliet's name in a second-hand book which she owns. There begins a correspondence with at first one member, but eventually all of the members of the literary society of the title.

Juliet is intrigued and moved by the stories her correspondents have to tell about their lives under German occupation. She visits Guernsey and becomes involved in the lives of her new friends whose fascinating histories become the subject of her new book.

As with all good historical novels, this book informs as well as entertains. The characters are well-drawn and the plot satisfying. The novel certainly deserves to have been made into the feature film which achieved considerable acclaim."

The book is, of course, available in the library.

Audio Books

Patrick Coghlan reminds us that the library has a substantial collection of audio books on CD for both adults and children. "A couple of years ago I thoroughly enjoyed reading Michelle Obama's 'Belonging'", he writes. "This summer I listened to her reading it on an audiobook. It was even more moving, read by her with passion, enthusiasm and at times, sorrow."

"A reader lives a thousand lives before he dies . . . The man who never reads lives only one." – George R.R. Martin

The History Girls

The “Finding Lost Norton Park” project team were recently delighted to discover our collection of local interest and local history books relating to Greenhill and surrounding areas. Put together by members of the Greenhill Village History Society (pictured), this significant collection of around 400 books includes many out-of-print and hard-to-find volumes. Some were purchased with a grant from the Ward Pot, some have been culled from donations, and some are council-supplied books. They’re all available to borrow, in contrast to the only other comparable source we know about, which is ensconced in the reference section of the central library. You’ll find our collection in the reading alcove.

Tues 10th March 2020 at 7.00pm. Greenhill Village History Society presents:

A Journey by steam train between Sheffield Midland and Dore & Totley stations with local railway author Ted Hancock

Join Ted on a digital journey by steam train, calling at Heeley Station, Millhouses locomotive shed, Beauchief station and all points in between.

SITUATIONS VACANT

We're looking for a helper to work alongside Shelley in delivering code club sessions to children on Thursday afternoons. Code club teaches computer programming to 9-13 year olds using projects based on the visual programming language Scratch. You would need to be computer literate and able to assist children in following along with written project instructions. Some knowledge of coding would be an advantage. If you're interested, send an email to codeclub@greenhill-library.org

We're also looking for an assistant treasurer to work alongside our existing treasurer with a view to replacing him and taking up a position on the board of trustees in due course. For more information on this important role, visit <https://greenhill-library.org/become-a-volunteer> where you will also find an on-line application form , or send an email to volunteering@greenhill-library.org
There are other volunteering opportunities on the web site.
