

New Facilities

The library now has a new baby-changing station to make life easier for parents and carers visiting with little ones.

Funding from the Beauchief and Greenhill Ward has been used to supply new chairs in the library.

If you have an NHS hearing aid you can pick up replacement batteries here. Please bring along your NHS hearing aid battery record book.

We also loan out electricity monitors. These handy devices are easy to use, telling you how much electricity your household is using, and how much it's costing.

Evening Events at the Library

Greenhill Library is holding a series of evening events this spring, starting on Friday 20th March at 7pm, when Lynne Brown is presenting a talk and exhibition around 'An Introduction to Quilting'. Tickets cost £5, and her beautiful quilts will be on display make this an exhibition well worth catching.

This event is followed in April with 'An Evening with Dave Berry'. Originally planned for December last year, this evening with one of Sheffield's original singing sensations has been rescheduled for Friday 17th April at 7pm, when Dave will talk about his stellar performing and recording career. Tickets cost £7 and include a glass of wine.

And on Friday 22nd May, again at 7pm, Jennie Hinton will present 'From Plant to Paper', discussing and demonstrating the art – and science – of creating botanical illustrations. Tickets cost £5, and tickets for all the above events are available from the library.

Calling all Photographers

Do you like taking photographs of our lovely area? Would you like to see your work in print? And would you like to help Greenhill Library raise funds? Then our photography competition is for you! We're launching our new competition to find photographs for a 2016 wall calendar, to be sold on behalf of the library.

We're seeking 13 photographs of scenes of local interest, shot in landscape orientation. The pictures require a minimum resolution of 2,500 by 1,600. Winning shots will be printed in the calendar while inspirational runner-up pictures will be published on our website. The closing date for entries is 31st October, 2015 and entries can be emailed to
